

Bd. of Selectmen Drops R.R. Ave. Plans For '61

Florist Selected Box Decorator

R. Eric Erickson, proprietor of Park Florist, 1371 Mass. ave., Arlington, has been selected as one of the florists to decorate the Presidential boxes at the three Inaugural Balls in Washington. The balls will be held at the Sheraton-Park Hotel, the Mayflower Hotel, and the Armory. Some 50,000 carnations will be used to decorate the boxes. Fifteen thousand carnations will be donated by the New England Carnation Growers Ass'n. The staff of designers will include Mr. Erickson; Mrs. Sylvia Macguffog Valencia of (Continued on Page 11)

Plans to take any action in time for the 1961 warrant regarding the Railroad ave. section were abandoned by the Selectmen this week.

Both the over-all plan for developing the roadway and parking lot as well as the short-term proposal for merely extending Railroad ave. to Water st. have been postponed. Several members of the Board felt that it would be advisable to wait until the entire "package" could be done properly than to do a small part of it now.

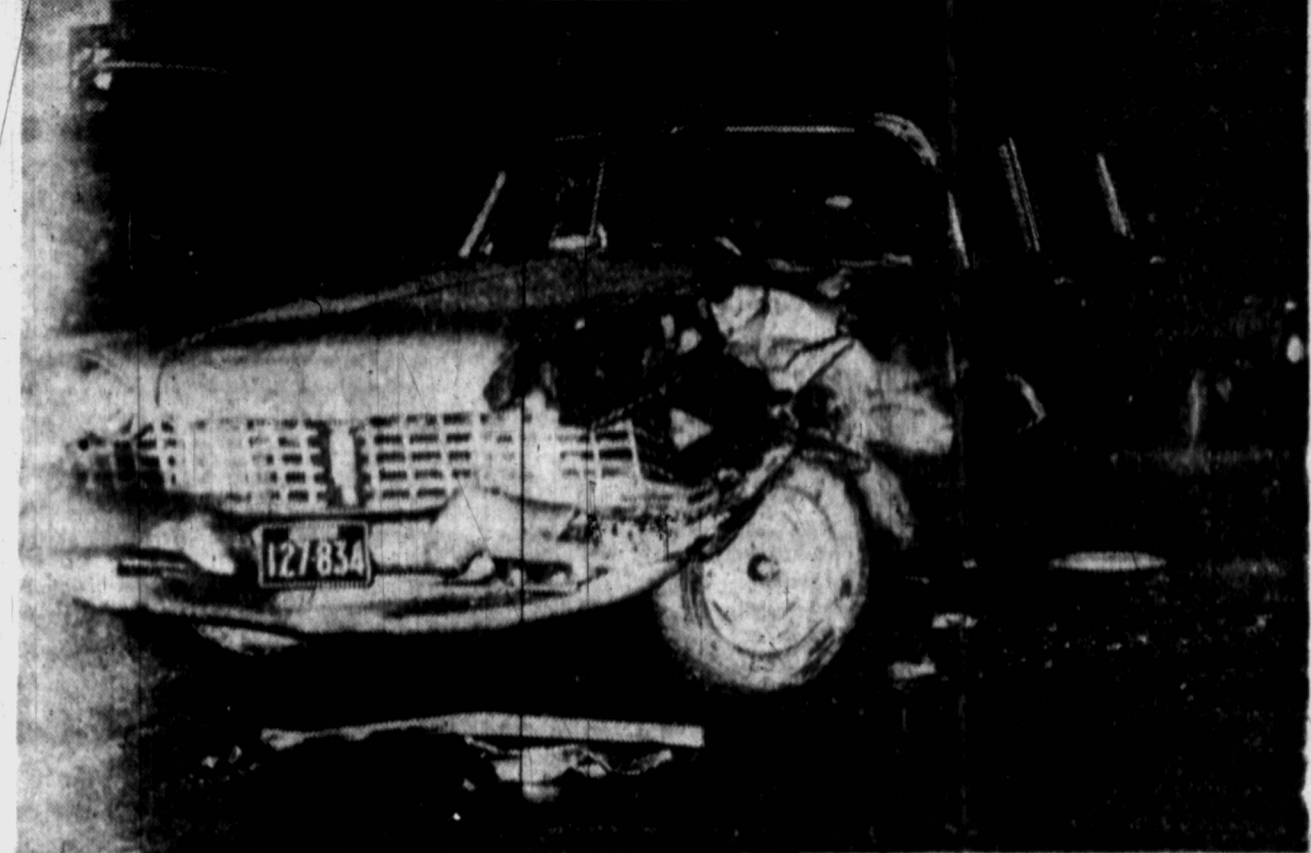

Selectman Buckley relayed to the Board the feeling of the Harvard Trust Co. in regard to the seemingly high prices quoted last week for land takings.

He said that although the bank would not be able to give the entire amount of land because of their own plans, officials wanted to make clear that they would not be asking excessive amounts for the property.

The bank would also be interested in joining with other abutters, the Planning Board and the Selectmen to discuss the matter thoroughly, just as soon as the Town Meeting is over, Buckley said.

SNOW STORM

Monday's snow storm cost the town a total of $12,803.90, Town Manager Edward C. Monahan announced yesterday.

HIT AND RUN driver caused this terrific damage to a rental car which was parked on Park ave. last Saturday evening. Chances of catching the demon driver seem remote.

Subway Fumes Get An Airing

On Sunday, Jan. 8, the Metropolitan Transit Authority operated Diesel buses through the Harvard Square subway for the purpose of conducting various tests designed to establish the intensity of fumes. In addition to public health experts representing the (Continued on Page 12)

Selectman Buckley and Town Manager Monahan were at odds this week over the question of free all-day parking for local businessmen.

The dispute arose at Monday night's Selectmen's meeting when estimated costs for improving the old parking lot near Winslow st. were discussed. A rough estimate of $17,070 was given by the town engineer as the cost of the 65-car lot, which would be set up for 25¢ all-day parking.

Buckley, who admitted that he was an "all-day parker" himself, pointed out that this kind of municipal parking was free in Lexington. He said he didn't believe the primary purpose of the lot was to make money and added that he felt the purpose of the all-day lot was to get local business and office workers out of other short-term parking areas as well as to get them off the smaller streets.

"I don't think the Town has to subsidize free parking for businessmen and their employees," said the Town Manager. "I don't see why the Town has to put in the lot, take care of it and then get no return on it. It is no injustice to ask anyone to pay 25¢."

When Buckley pointed out the two areas for parking by town employees, Monahan replied that these were not intended for all-day parking but for the use of library patrons, visitors to Robbins House, and for Town employees with cars used constantly for professional purposes.

Selectman Parker said he felt the Town had no obligation to provide free parking for a limited number of citizens, although he realized that parking space was at a premium.

"The old municipal lot is a mess," admitted Selectman Saul, but I don't know whether I want to put $17,000 into it." He wondered if certain of the costs couldn't be reduced.

Final result of the discussion by the Selectmen was a motion to insert into the warrant an article requesting that this project be done, but withholding costs.

Town Engineer Roby said that complete costs could not be figured out in time for the closing of the warrant next week.

Local Candidates In Record High

Town Clerk Ann Mahon announced on Tuesday this week that five more candidates — four for Selectman, one for Housing Authority — have taken out nomination papers.

The quartet for Selectmen include Daniel A. Purcell, former Park Commissioner; Francis "Lead" J. O'Connell, proprietor of a taxi service in the center and, for years, Town Meeting member, Prec. 5; William F. McCarthy, 100 Harlow st., a foreman according to the True List; Ernest O. Scott, 372 Appleton st., a salesman.

New name for Housing is Francis J. Brickley, 29, of 118 Franklin st.

This brings the present total of 26 who have stated their intentions to run for major office — 14 for Selectman.

"If all file, this could be an all-time high," Ann Mahon said.

On the other hand, as of yesterday, several precincts are shown to have fewer candidates for Town Meeting member than there are openings.

Rush Hour Service Resumed By MTA

Public relations policies of the M.T.A. were given a critical eye again by Selectman Joseph Greeley this week.

He pointed out at Monday night's Selectman meeting that no official notice was ever sent to the Town regarding the resumption of rush-hour service on the Broadway-Clarendon Hill line.

Greeley said he was pleased to read from a letter to a private citizen, however, the complete details of the service, as explained by the director of public relations for the M.T.A.

In the letter to the Arlington resident, the public relations director said that buses were running every twenty minutes Monday thru Friday from 6:50 to 8:45 a.m. and from 4:05 to 6:10 p.m., as of Dec. 12.

Greeley had been looking for some official word ever since the Board of Selectmen had urged the resumption of rush-hour service when curtailment was first announced.

Parents Listen To Sad News

Any idea that the Town's school building program would be accomplished with the completion of the Pleasant Ave. school was blown to bits Tuesday night.

Dr. Bert Roens told the School Committee at its monthly meeting that his estimates indicate an enrollment of 2500 at the High school in Sept., 1963.

The new A.H.S. addition — just completed last fall — was designed to accommodate around 2,000 under the 4-year plan which now includes 9th graders or freshman class.

Roens stated that the new Arlington Catholic high which opened last September for the 9th grade only "took only four of the 100-odd pupils we expected."

"If this trend continues plus the growth in population, our high school will have to house at least 2,500," he said.

Cutter Parents Attend

About 30 Cutter school parents attended in a plea for an addition and renovation of that building. They said the classrooms are too crowded and also that there is a lack of facilities enjoyed by other elementary schools.

It was because of these requests, the impending situation at the High school was gone into — in detail.

Roens spelled out future plans, in order of priority:

- 1) renovation in the A.H.S. for more classrooms;
- 2) more room at the Brackett, particularly for the kindergarten;
- 3) improvements to both the Cutter and Locke schools;
- 4) construction of a floor-

level auditorium at the Parmenter.

Avoid Two Platoons

Chairman Mary Porteus said to the group, "I don't believe even you parents of elementary grade children would like to see us ignore the High school."

"It would mean two platoons, definitely," she stated.

It was revealed that, even with further additions at the A.H.S., three cafeteria periods will be a certainty. This would mean a slightly longer school day, beginning this Sept., 1961.

To Insert Article

When the Committee was queried by the parents as to putting "our own" article in the 1961 Warrant, Committeeman James Daily said, "I think that would be a good idea."

The thought was expressed that, possibly, parents could get more support for funds from the Town Meeting than could the Committee.

Mrs. Porteus ventured, "We barely got what we got last year."

This, the Committee would discuss, Mrs. Porteus promised.

"No Action" Voted

Another item on the agenda was the proposal of the taking of three houses, located on Mass. ave., east of the High school.

Committeeman Carl Allen objected. He said it would cost $200,000 and this money should be used "to comply (Continued on Page 12)

The show, entitled "The four Seasons of Fashion," will be directed by Plotkin Brothers of Framingham.

MTA SHELTER? — Rep. John P. Buckley, along with Cambridge legislators, this week introduced legislation which could eventually lead to the construction of this multi-story building in Harvard Sq. The bills call for permission to buy or lease the land in Harvard Square from the MTA. The plans say that the street level of the building could be used as the MTA terminal. Harvard University has expressed opposition to the plan.

Residents insured for $170 Million

(Special to Advocate)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 — The amount of life insurance held by the average Arlington family is at an all-time high. The protection in force is estimated at $12,510 per family. Total holdings locally, for all covered families, stands at

The expansion of this type of insurance locally is typical of the trend nationally. It represents one of several steps that people have been taking in recent years to add to their financial security. Other steps have been to increase their bank savings and to put money into investments. The fact that the Social Security system covers most of them with old-age pensions and with disability insurance and is steadily broadening the scope of its protection has not stopped Arlington residents from adding to their life insurance.

The expansion in the number of policyholders and in the amount in force is reported on a national and state basis in the 1960 Life Insurance Fact Book. The figures are for the previous year.

They reveal that the total face value of policies in force in the United States has reached $600 billion. The State of Massachusetts has $16,976,000,000 of that amount.

How much does this come to on the family level? From data on income, provided by Sales Management, it represents 17.4 months' net earnings, after taxes, for each household in the state.

Applying this yardstick to Arlington, where net income averaged $8,631 per household in the year, the size of life insurance holdings locally amounts to $12,510 per household.

This is more than in the United States as a whole, where it stands at $9,500. In the State of Massachusetts it is $10,600.

The grand total, for all local families having insurance, is $170,136,000.

While men own the great bulk of life insurance in force, ownership among women continues to gain, according to the fact book. At the end of the year, coverage on the lives of women comprised 15 percent of the total.

Auto Registrations Up By 123,000

Clement A. Riley, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, has announced that 1,633,000 sets of registration plates and certificates have been issued for the year 1961. This was an increase of 123,000 over the last year.

Notwithstanding this unprecedented volume of registrations, the Registry was able to process all of the 1,633,000 applications received during the past few months.

The personnel of the Registry are to be commended for the effort they expended in order that the motoring public would receive their registration plates and certificates in time for use on January first.

The Registrar has also announced that through his administrative assistant, Robert C. Capasso, the Registry of Motor Vehicles has inaugurated a new method of processing excise tax data and motor vehicle listing information.

With this change of procedure, the excise tax data is now processed through the Registry of Motor Vehicles within seven days of its receipt. In this manner, the Department of Corporations and Taxation will receive its excise tax information months in advance of previous years, thereby enabling the cities and towns to prepare their tax bills earlier than in former years.

His responsibilities will include the selection and care of aviation personnel, the study of the aviator's operational problems and continued research in the field of aviation.

He has received orders to the Naval Air Station, Quonset Point, R.I.

More than 250 alumni and friends of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy attended the observance of the 138th anniversary of the founding of the College on Jan. 10.

The celebration served as the first public announcement of a general campaign to raise $900,000 for new construction during 1961.

Leonard F. Tibbetts, local pharmacist, is chairman of the development committee. He launched the campaign for funds with the announcement that the advance gifts period has yielded pledges totaling $109,739 from 150 contributors. Tibbetts home is at 8 Bradley rd.

Other residents in attendance were Carroll B. Gustafson, 155 George st., associate professor of Chemistry at the College; James R. Marshall, 20 Ernest rd.; Edith E. Hill, 68 Bay State rd.; John R. Cotter, 65 Columbia rd.; George Pappas, 67 Beverley rd.; Felix A. Conte, 39 Radcliffe rd.

INDEX IS STEADY

Mr. Donald B. Falvey, Director of Standards and Necessaries of Life, announced today that the combined Massachusetts Retail Price Index showed no change from November, 1960 to December, 1960.

The combined index number for December, 1960, of 129.8 showed a percentage increase of 2.3% over December, 1959; 2.5% over January, 1960 and 27.6% over June, 1950. The only sections showing changes were fuel and light, which advanced 0.2%, and sundries, 0.1%.

The above-mentioned increase of 2.3% from December, 1959 to December, 1960 indicated a steeper rise for the year as compared with 1.0% from December, 1958 to December, 1959.

Covering The UN

IN KEY UN POST

Current hostilities in Laos have dramatized the activities of a petite blonde Frenchwoman who for the past several months has been the acting United Nations resident representative in that country. She is Mlle. Jacqueline Granger, one of the only two women at present responsible for coordination of programs of technical assistance in any region for the United Nations and its special fund. The other is Miss Joan Anslee, a British girl now assigned to Bolivia and Ecuador.

Mlle. Granger maintains headquarters in Vientiane, from which point her duties take her to various parts of Laos, checking on the progress of various UN technical assistance projects there, including the Laotian aspects of the far-flung program for development of the Lower Mekong river basin. Her capabilities for this strategic position are reflected in her background.

She is fluent in six languages including Arabic and Persian; was chief of the UNESCO mission in Lebanon in 1952 and 1953, and before that time worked as a secretary in the French Embassies in Cairo and Teheran. At last report here there had been no interruption in her routine, due to the clashes between Laotian and invading troops.

ILLICIT TRAFFIC

Traffic in illicit narcotics is still flourishing in all parts of the world according to a report just released by the United Nations Opium Board. Seizures on raw opium rose from 36,496 pounds in 1958 to over 56,000 pounds in 1959. In the same period confiscation of cocoa seeds increased from approximately 10,000 pounds to 34,000 pounds. Seizure of illicit morphine also increased. The Board said that traffic in illicit opium continued in almost every Asian country and in certain parts of South America.

The United Nations report accuses West Germany, Bolivia, Ecuador and the United Arab Republic of hampering the UN's efforts at control of the movement of narcotics. These nations submitted incomplete or faulty statistics or refused to answer requests for information according to the Board.

DISCRIMINATIONS

Restrictive regulations hampering individual freedom in many fields in many countries are being reviewed in the thirteenth session of the United Nations Sub-commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, which convened at New York headquarters on January 10.

One of the areas in which the earlier work of the group has proved particularly effective has been that of education, especially for girls, and particularly in African countries which had for generations afforded scant opportunities in their curricula for girls and women.

Studies have been made for the subcommission, and will be examined during the session, covering existing discriminations in education; in political rights; in religious rights; and in respect to the right of everyone to leave any country, including his own. Manifestations of anti-Semitism and other forms of racial prejudice and religious intolerance are also to be discussed by the delegates.

TO VENEZUELA

Edwin Clark of North Tarrytown, New York, director of highway transportation studies for the New York Department of Public Works, has arrived in Caracas, Venezuela, on a three-month mission for the United Nations Technical Assistance Operations office. He is a member of a three-man team commissioned to aid the Government by formulating a comprehensive traffic and public transportation system for Caracas, to ease traffic congestion there.

The team, comprising also Sigurd Ribbing of Stockholm and Marc Lengevin of France, will investigate the feasibility of building a subway system in the capital, among other solutions.

FAMINE VICTIMS

An emergency allocation of $286,000 has been approved in a mail poll by the executive board of the United Nations Children's Fund, to provide famine relief and medical services for the refugees from tribal warfare in the Kasai province of the Congo (Leopoldville capital). Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld has estimated that from 200,000 to 300,000 people are in acute need in the region.

During January $156,000 will be spent for food, from the UNICEF funds; $40,000 will go for drugs and medical services, and $90,000 for seed to be sown. The last item emphasizes the drastic need of the refugees for nourishment. Returned correspondents have testified that they have eaten the seed they carried with them on their flight, and which should have been planted to assure the next season's harvest.

Two Local Students Win 'Early Decision'

Northeastern University has admitted 46 of 70 students who have applied for admission under the University's new "early decision" program. Dr. Gilbert C. Garland, Dean and Director of Admissions, announced this week.

Under the program initiated this year, students may apply for admission by the end of the junior year in high school or early in their senior year.

The plan is intended for those who have strong academic records and have done well in the scholastic aptitude test of the College Board examinations taken in the spring of the junior year.

The program, Dr. Garland said, is beneficial to both the student and the University. It removes the student from the annual spring scramble to gain admission to the college of his choice and it cuts down on the paper work for the University.

Local students who have been admitted include M. Curtis Gilbert, 5 Newcomb st., enrolled in the College of Engineering; and Athanasia Stacey, 68 Brooks ave., in the College of Liberal Arts.

Two Arlington residents received bachelor's degrees granted by the University of Massachusetts this semester.

In School Race

A local teacher in the Woburn public schools has announced his candidacy for School Committee. He is Edward H. McCann of 203 Renfrew st.

His statement to the Advocate:

"I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for one of the three positions on the school committee to be filled in our Town Election on March 6.

"At a crucial time, such as exists presently on the international scene, the school systems throughout the country can have nothing short of qualified leaders. Our schools are going to develop the future leaders, scientists, engineers, nurses, doctors, and skilled workers.

"We must therefore dedicate ourselves to the best possible training and instruction of tomorrow's citizens in accordance with the latest accepted standards of education. With this thought in mind I ask you to consider my qualifications.

"I was graduated from Boston University and State Teachers College at which time the Massachusetts Department of Education certified me to teach on both the elementary and secondary level. Before entering the U.S. Army, I served as an elementary school teacher. Since discharge from the Army, I have been employed as a teacher of Mathematics and Science on the secondary level in the Woburn school system. This experience will enable me, if elected to the school committee, to serve with a better understanding of the problems that arise within a school system.

"I received a fellowship from the National Science Foundation for graduate study at Temple University in Philadelphia in the summer of 1959. Presently I am studying for my Masters Degree at Northeastern University in the field of pupil guidance, an area so vital for the proper development of the youth within a school and a community."

FILM LISTS

If local clubs or church groups need an interesting and varied program for the month of February, why not drop in to Robbins Library and investigate the many 16 mm. sound films that may be borrowed free of charge by Arlington groups in need of program material?

This is suggested by Miss Judith Stromdahl, librarian.

The selections for the month of February cover a wide range of interest from Chinese fingerpainting to U.S. history.

Films should be booked in advance to assure receipt of those films desired.

Titles of February films are: Africa, Giant With a Future White Man, Stratford Adventure, Hymn of the Nations, Time out of War, Williamsburg Restored, Fingerpainting of Wu Tsai Yen

Tale of the Florida I've Been There in a Book Wind from the West Arts and Crafts of Mexico United States

No Time To Hide

(reprinted from Greenfield Recorder-Gazette)

No doubt Town Counsel Felix J. Cerrato is correct in his ruling on Greenfield school board subcommittees. But we hope the members will exercise their rights with regard to the people who elect them.

Atty. Cerrato's comment concerning the press has a spiteful sound unworthy of a man whose public service has always been of high caliber and whose own relations with news media have been friendly on both sides. He intimated that, since the press had sponsored the "open meeting" law, the school committee will be subjected to "a great deal of questioning and a great deal of ill-advised publicity".

"The press" did indeed work hard for state laws requiring municipal, county and state boards to open their meetings to the public. It believed sincerely that the people are entitled to attend the meetings of elected boards. It believes also that the citizens have the right to know the meeting times so they can plan their attendance.

This work at the statehouse was not done for the benefit of newspapers alone.

It was not to build circulation. Nor was the law supported as a means of revenge upon stubborn and secretive officials. Newspapers simply feel the public's business should be done in public, whether citizens are interested or not.

No reporter or editor to our knowledge has attempted to interfere with a board's right to discuss matters in privacy. We do not expect subcommittees of the Greenfield school committee to operate as formally as the parent group. But there may be some matters of public concern, either today or in the future, to come before such subcommittees. And if that should happen, the subordinate unit should not be able to close the doors. Since The Recorder-Gazette almost never sends a reporter to such a session, our argument is on the principle.

The Greenfield school committee proposes a budget of $1,190,173 for 1961. It is in the interest of the committee, the teachers, the pupils and the townspeople that there be general understanding of how this enormous sum is to be spent. No doors should be closed, regardless of legal interpretation.

To Late To Hide

The ostrich is a much smarter bird than he gets credit for being. Over the centuries he has been an object of ridicule from those who think an ostrich tries to hide from trouble by burying his head in the sand.

Now for the truth about this not so foolish bird. He happens to be a tall creature — ranging as high as eight feet from the ground. He inhabits open desert country, where he stands out conspicuously on the landscape.

So when he senses any danger, this clever bird crouches down on those long legs of his and presses his head against the sand until he blends into the scenery and becomes almost invisible from a distance.

U.S. motorists would be a lot better off today if they had learned to imitate the ostrich years ago. They, too, have a way of sticking out on the landscape. At least they have been targets for excessive gasoline taxes over the last 30 years, and they haven't yet found an effective way to protect themselves — even by hiding.

Motorists were certainly in plain sight back in 1959 when they got stuck with another increase in the federal gasoline tax — the third since 1951. The rate of this tax was boosted to four cents per gallon on the claim that additional money was needed to meet a deficit in financing the national highway program.

Funds Faces New Fields

Arthritis is the name for a group of painful, disabling diseases, mainly affecting the joints. There are two major types. Rheumatoid arthritis is accompanied by inflammation, swelling, fever, loss of weight and limited joint movement. This form of disease strikes all ages, including small children.

Osteoarthritis is a disease of the joints accompanying aging. Virtually all persons over 60 have it, suffering varying degrees of pain, stiffness and sometimes deformity. There are at least 11 million people in this country today who suffer from some form of rheumatic disease, including arthritis.

There is no scientific evidence that any known drug can stop arthritis or change its course. It is known that ACTH, cortisone, steroids — drugs related to cortisone — and gold compounds can check inflammation and swelling. Often these preparations give relief to a dramatic degree and allow the patient to move with greater freedom, but their benefits are not permanent. Because these medications can produce dangerous side effects, they must be cautiously prescribed.

In spite of the spectacular advances made in medicine, research has not yet found the cause of a group of inflammatory diseases, including rheumatoid arthritis.

That was why the National Foundation is now allocating a large percentage of March of Dimes funds to a comprehensive study of arthritis and is providing patient aid to some 16,000 children under 12 years of age who require medical treatment.

The March of Dimes virtually conquered polio. Now it is making great inroads in the assault on birth defects and arthritis. Its program will be accelerated in proportion to the generosity of all residents in the January campaign for funds.

Bites Off Big Chunk

Governor John A. Volpe wasted no time in flinging down the gauntlet to the 1961 General Court. The Republican chief executive, in his inaugural address, called for a reorganization of three departments.

They are the Metropolitan District Commission, the State Department of Public Works and the Metropolitan Transit Authority. Significantly, all these agencies are run by Democrats, and any politicking up legislation will get eagle-eyed scrutiny in both legislative branches heavily dominated by Democrats.

Obviously, the new chief executive interprets the results of the November election as a mandate from the people of the state to clean house in those areas where corruption, inefficiency and waste have been uncovered.

Governor Volpe has bitten off a big chunk when he attempts to reorganize these three key and controversial agencies. Hazarding a long-range guess, the prospects are excellent that he'll achieve a degree of success with at least a shake-up of the MTA a good possibility.

The job can't be done by the governor alone; nor by the Democratic-controlled General Court alone. If Massachusetts is to thrive, and move forward, each must seek earnestly for cooperation and be motivated by non-partisan zeal.

The times pose a challenge; the problems demand an end to "politics as usual."

Decisions Are For Experts

In April, we are told, one of those Project Mercury astronauts now in training at Langley Field, Va., will get the first ride in a nose cone that any man has ever had. The trip will be brief, only 16 minutes in duration and 130 miles each way — up and down! By the end of 1961, according to present plans of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the first astronaut will be sent into orbit.

Additionally, according to President Eisenhower's state-of-the-union message, the "near future" will see the landing of instruments on the moon and reconnaissance of Mars and Venus — via instruments in unmanned rockets.

How near this future may be, however, appears in some doubt since a Kennedy task force on space matters has recommended de-emphasizing Project Mercury and the more fanciful space probes to put more heat on the missile program and development of king-sized rocket engines.

Clearly, such decisions are for the experts. But Project Mercury has generated far more public excitement than the more impersonal programs. We understood, too, that the astronaut for the first flight may already have been selected and we wonder how he feels about the change of pace.

That Man About Town

By MAT

Well, it's finally happened! Francis "Led" O'Connell will run for Selectman. He has been threatening to run for years. Another candidate, in about simultaneous announcement, is Daniel Purcell. Now a resident of Morningside (Precinct 9), Danny was formerly the "mayor" of Prec. 5.

Presumably, they will pool their efforts. Whether, they run as a team or not, remains to be seen.

O'Connell runs the oldest taxi service here with headquarters now in the R.R. station in the center. Purcell is a member of a well-known and old-time Arlington families. He's a cousin of present Town Counsel and former Selectman Joseph Purcell. Dan is a former Park Commissioner. He and his colleagues, then, developed or planned the parks as seen today.

In politics and in town affairs, they represent the hard core of staunch, conservative Democrats. Purcell is an amazing worker; O'Connell, an amazing talker — quite a combination.

Based on past statements and actions, we can write the platform now:

1. Town employees are underpaid;
2. Town Manager Act is a proven flop;
3. Selectman Joseph P. Greeley should be shot at dawn;
4. Public works, park and cemetery depts. should be independent of both Manager and Selectmen;
5. Hundreds of thousands have been wasted on "too fancy" schools;
6. East Arlington has always been discriminated against;
7. The East has needed a Fire Station for years;
8. If Arthur Saul is re-elected, ok; but let major Contenders Pellegri and Rawson paddle their own canoes — down the river;
9. Re-location of Mystic st., tearing down of Old Town Hall (which ousted many organizations, including the V.F.W.) and the proposed demolition of the R.R. station — all baloney;
10. Town should be run by Arlingtonians, not new-comers (who know from nothing about town affairs) but run by both established Republicans and Democrats but, very preferably, the latter;
11. On-street, over-night, parking allowed in areas where 2-family houses were built, before a garage was a "must";
12. LOWER TAXES — and we can show you how!

Right now, we can't add one more because that would be the 13th. Incidentally, the gentlemen should send MAT a check for $500 for drawing up the basic platform. Undoubtedly.

To: Town Clerk Ann

To us, the number of candidates who say they will run for major Town offices, plus those for Town Meeting members, will make things "Merry in March." Shades of the 1952 and 1960 State Primaries. Get ready!

Each day improves the prospect for an early and excellent crop of ice from Spy Pond. The gathering of this harvest is an excellent thing for the laboring men of the town.

Mr. Gott has just built for Undertaker Hartwell, a pung especially suited for his business which in workmanship and finish is a good card for our principal carriage builder.

Twelve to sixteen degrees below zero was the record of last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings.

Mr. Elmer Winship, who has had considerable experience as an upholsterer and decorator, has established himself in business in Arlington. He will bottom cane chairs for 65 cts., or put in the patent seat for 50 cts.

Supt. Wm. Bradley, of the local moth work, has the applications in hand for work of this nature on private estates, sent him in response to circulars issued in the fall. These are being attended to in their order as fast as possible. All will be looked after in the efficient way by the town force in due season and there is no need to feel exercised about the matter. It is much wiser to let the town men do this work, for others are apt to prove unreliable. It is gratifying to note that citizens are looking after this matter of moth extermination sharply, for it augurs well for the future welfare of the town.

Brahms and Wagner will be the composers featured at the next concert of the Community Symphony Orchestra. The works will be offered music lovers of Arlington on the evening of Feb. 4 when the Orchestra gives its second concert of its third season, in Robbins Memorial Town Hall.

Today On Beacon Hill

CIVIL WAR — Sen. Edward C. Stone (R) of Barnstable was named to the Civil War Centennial Commission to succeed former Sen. Charles W. Hedges (R) of Quincy, now Norfolk county sheriff.

TURNED DOWN — The Senate accepted without debate an adverse committee report on a bill to name the Quabbin reservoir after U.S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall.

RINKS — Benjamin W. Fink, MDC chief park engineer, told a legislative committee the Metropolitan District Commission would construct as many skating rinks and swimming pools as the public demanded, provided funds were provided. Ten bills, that met with no opposition, seek facilities.

LABOR-Management — The first battle of the legislative session between labor and management was staged at a hearing before the Labor and Industries committee when organized workers blasted a bid by industry to speed up action on claims for workmen's compensation. Industry urged quicker action to settle claims and end delaying tactics, while labor protested that workers often are unaware of the severity of injuries within the first few months after an industrial incident.

MTA — Because the Metropolitan Transit Authority has requested legislative approval of a $6,000,000 bond issue to buy new rolling stock, General Manager Thomas McLernon has been invited by Speaker John F. Thompson of the House to sit down in a private session with the House Rules committee as soon as convenient.

WORKERS — Because the state department of industrial accidents feels "fly by night" employers circumvent the workmen's compensation law, the state agency proposed that all employers be required to carry compensation insurance now mandatory only when there are four or more employees.

PARK — With plans for extension of the Massachusetts Turnpike from Weston to Boston still in the air, the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs is holding up action on a plan to have the state acquire Norumbega Park in Newton.

MOTOR BOAT — At the same time former Republican whip John W. Davis of Marblehead was being named assistant director of the state division of motor boats, Director Wilton Vaughn of Scituate, was ordered by state commissioner of administration and finance Charles Gibbons to live within the division budget. Governor John A. Volpe said that there had not been any order given to fire any of the personnel after it had been stated that 17 men were discharged.

The Governor said that there would not be any deficiency appropriation allowed to pay salaries for any employee, and the director was told that if his funds were exhausted he was to drop persons not needed and those for whom no funds are available.

GAS TAX — Whether or not it will require any new taxes on gasoline to finance the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue to be requested by Governor John A. Volpe, is subject of a study now under way.

The Governor said that a thorough examination is being made of the financial status of the highway fund. Under the present law, three cents of the state-collected gasoline tax is earmarked to retire outstanding bonds for highway improvements. The Governor said that he would have a complete analysis made of the financial picture before making recommendations to the Legislature.

PRUDENTIAL — With controversy still raging concerning the best means of extending the Massachusetts turnpike to Boston, and advocates of a toll road are competing with proponents of a freeway. Governor John A. Volpe said that he would confer Monday with Vice-President Fred Smith of the Prudential Insurance Co. to discuss suggested plans for the highway, which is a vital asset to bring travel into the Prudential center in the Back Bay.

EYES — A plan similar to Blue Cross, to provide insurance filed by Senator Ralph C. Mahar (R) of Orange. The protection would be offered by a corporation functioning in the same manner as Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

TRANSPORTATION — Whether or not there will be a sweeping reorganization of the Mass. Transportation Committee or its ultimate abolition will be requested by Governor John A. Volpe's plan to establish a Metropolitan Planning agency.

Here you'll find a strength to Live by

Behind the Business Scene

by REYNOLDS KNIGHT

NEW YORK — Construction spending is expected to reach a record $76.8 billion during the coming year. This would be a definite reversal of the slowdown of 1960.

The comeback for the industry is expected in many lines, including housing, highways, schools, public works, utilities and commercial and industrial projects, according to a current outlook of the Associated General Contractors of America.

This is particularly good news for many suppliers in view of the fact that spending in this field last year dipped by $1.4 billion to $74.1 billion. It was the first year since World War II that dollar value did not increase.

New construction spending accounting for $19.5 billion, the contractors predict.

Like many other prognosticators, they feel that over-all economic activity will turn upward in the second half of the year after a small decline in the first half.

WATCH QUALITY — Because of the increasing consumer demand for high-quality goods—the strongest since World War II—the watch and jewelry industry is looking forward to new sales levels this year.

Shop-wise buyers are losing some of their fascination with bargain-priced goods, especially where long-time use is desired, according to Harry B. Henshel, president of the 85-year-old Bulova Watch Company. Manufacturers, he says, are responding to this trend by stressing quality and treating the additional cost as a selling "plus" instead of being apologetic or timid about it.

CHEMICAL PROGRESS — Substantial diversification in product line, and rapid growth in production capabilities were the highlights of 1960 so far as one major chemical company was concerned, according to Harry B. Warner, president of B. F. Goodrich Chemical Co.

During the past year, he said, the company (1) scored an impressive breakthrough in vinyl technology, (2) entered the ABS plastic field, (3) became the first to have a computer-controlled plant in the chemical processing industry, (4) opened its first plant west of the Mississippi, and (5) built and expanded its plants around the world.

FARM OUTLOOK — Production of grain, meat, vegetable oils and other farm products will increase in the U.S. in 1961, as well as consumption of these products both here and abroad. This is the prediction of Erwin E. Kelm, president, Cargill, Inc., nationwide agricultural products firm.

"Our long-range plans for expansion," Kelm says, "assume that services performed by firms such as ours will be in ever-greater demand." The company's expansion in 1960 included a 12-million-bushel export elevator at Baie Comeau, Quebec, on the Atlantic end of the St. Lawrence Seaway, where grain from both the U.S. and Canada is received during the seaway's ice-free months for year-round overseas shipment.

The company also acquired a 3-million-bushel waterside elevator at Duluth, and a 2-million-bushel elevator at Toledo. At Chicago a "floating elevator" was put in operation and construction was begun on a large ware house and loading dock to receive incoming general cargo from vessels arriving through the Seaway.

APPLIANCE OUTLOOK — Substantial sales increases in all major product categories are expected in 1961 by the gas appliance industry, according to a survey of the 576 members of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Ass'n, who produce 95 per cent of all household, commercial and industrial gas equipment made in this country.

Shipments of gas ranges in the new year will approximate 2,116,000 units, an increase in free-standing models of 13.2 per cent over 1960, 21.3 per cent in built-ins, and an over-all gain of 14.8 per cent, the survey shows.

Improvement in gas central heating equipment sales is expected to reach 12.2 per cent, or a total of approximately 1,318,000 units, with furnaces up 14.6 per cent, boilers 7.5 per cent and conversion burners (which convert existing coal or oil systems to gas) up 0.9 per cent. The GAMA report points out that the bright heating picture reflects significant gas heating gains in new home construction and home modernization projects.

'READY-MADE' RECORD — Cigarette sales soared to new record levels in 1960 for the fourth consecutive year and prospects are bright for further gains this year, in the opinion of William S. Cutchins, president of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.

Led by substantial gains of filter brands, and particularly methols, industry-wide cigarette sales rose to an estimated 475 billion units, an increase of about 4.8 per cent over 1959's previous record of 453 billion, he reported.

Mr. Cutchins says indications are that 1961 will show substantial gains, amounting probably to about 4 per cent and carrying total volume to as high as 494 billion units.

Contribution to prospects for further gains, the company executive said, are the increasing number of women smokers and the fact that the age group showing the highest cigarette usage, age 20 to 35, is growing faster than the population as a whole. It is from these two groups that filter cigarettes have received their greatest sales stimulus, especially among women smokers, who prefer them two to one over non-filters.

FOSTER PARENTS

The first anniversary meeting of the Foster Parents program of three Red Feather child placing agencies will be held on Jan. 24, at 7:15 p.m. at the United Community Services building, Boston.

The program, which is a year old, was organized by the Boston Children's Service Association, Church Home Society and Children's Mission to help Foster Parents in their everyday relationship with their Foster children as well as drawing the Foster families into stronger, closer ties with the agencies.

The meeting will include citations to Foster Parents of 15 years service and over, and also a production put on by the Wellesley Players. The play, "Present Pleasure," aims to tell an audience what a foster family may experience during a child's adjustment in a foster home.

Serving on the planning committee for the program are Mr. and Mrs. James Carlan of 76 Westmoreland ave.

Fathers Outline Their Occupations

Pupils in Miss Heeger's second grade class at the Cutter School had a most interesting lesson Thursday afternoon as part of the social studies program.

Several of the fathers of the class came to school and told of their various occupations.

Rev. Robert Lantz, minister of the First Presbyterian church in Cambridge, told how he helped people. Lt. Edward Reardon of the Arlington Fire Department not only talked about the fire department and his duties there, but also suggested a visit to the station, to see how it functions.

Mrs. Richard Wingerson, a registered nurse at Symmes hospital, related a typical day as she aids patients and assists doctors. Dr. Richard Lassar, local physician, told how important his profession is and how hard he works to keep people well.

E. Richard Erickson, local florist, presented a red rose bud for the class to watch and enjoy. He also explained how important flowers are to say "just the right thing at the right time."

The last guest, John Donohue, superintendent of the Heights Post Office, traced a letter from the time it is mailed, through the office and finally to its destination.

The class wrote letters to him which he promised to answer, cancel, and return them to the school.

The second grade classes study their community and community helpers as a part of the social study curriculum.

Porteus Challenges Selectmen With 'Misrepresentation'

In a torrid release to this newspaper, Robert W. (Bob) Porteus scored what he termed "horrible misrepresentation" concerning the present board of selectmen.

Candidate Porteus said, however, that the five constituents on the board are "all fine citizens and gentlemen and are men he is proud to know and associate with."

Porteus is "shocked" and "mystified" that this board is not able to solve and rectify certain abominable situations which currently exist within the Town.

His statement said, "The Board of Selectmen must consist of men of keen perception. It must consist of men who play fair."

Was it keen perception when the relocating of Mystic street was proposed? This new bottleneck is annoying and hazardous to Arlington drivers and pedestrians. The whole affair shows an alarming lack of understanding and planning.

"Was it 'playing fair' when the 'A&P' supermarket was practically forced out of business because of this new traffic hazard?"

"Much talk is heard concerning what a fine harmonious board Arlington has now. Such harmony and complacency forbodes nothing but danger. Despite the Town Manager form of government, our tax rate continues to soar. This situation must be remedied immediately."

"I challenge the good faith of the members of the board as well as the announced candidates."

"It is my belief," said Porteus, "that a prime mover for one's candidacy to this board is financial reimbursement and personal gain."

"I think that it is an honor to be able to serve one's home community and that this should be reward enough. If elected, I will petition for the abolishment of Selectmen's salaries. If unsuccessful in this quest, I will not accept any town pay check for any services rendered, but will turn over to the town treasurer all pay checks forced upon me."

"This is my pledge to the over-taxed people of Arlington and one way in which I hope to exhibit my seriousness of purpose in this new undertaking."

MARRIED AT ST. AGNES

St. Agnes church was the scene recently of the marriage of Anne Marie Rawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Rawson of 54 Hutchinson rd., to Ronald Leslie Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mansfield of 285 Massachusetts ave.

Officiating was the Rt. Rev. Oscar O'Gorman, pastor of St. Agnes, with the Rev. Hilary Sullivan assisting at the nuptial mass. The reception followed at the Sidney Hill country club.

Maid of honor for her sister was Miss Gail Rawson. Two other sisters, Miss Zita A. and Miss Donna M. Rawson, were bridesmaids; also, a cousin, Maureen O'Connor of 288 Appleton st.; also, Patricia Turner of 43 Chester st. and Nancy Craig of Brookline.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie with portrait neckline trimmed with Alencon lace with full length veil held by an Alencon lace cap and with a cathedral length train.

Her attendants wore amethyst dresses of peau de soie and wore head bands of plum grapes with green leaves, also plum-colored muffs and plum velvet shoes.

Best man was Richard Young of Pembroke. Ushers were Ray Gosselin of Quincy, Wayne MacLeod of Burlington, Donald Hazelton and Raymond Pothier, both of Arlington.

In charge of the guest book was Miss Lorraine Doris Hardin of Somerville.

The bride was graduated from Marycliff Academy and Mt. Ida College of the Sacred Heart.

The bridegroom was graduated from Arlington High school and the Sheffield School of Aeronautics of Miami and is employed by Northeast Airlines.

A group of about 75 advance mathematics students and members of the science club at Arlington High School last Friday visited the Computer Laboratory at Mass. Institute of Technology.

They were accompanied by five members of the mathematics faculty and two science teachers on the tour, which was arranged through the courtesy of Col. F. H. Fairchild, commandant of the M.I.T. R.O.T.C. unit, an Arlington resident and father of one of the pupils.

Taken first to a classroom, where a demonstration of principles was set up, the group learned the connection of the computer with the old Chinese abacus.

A simple explanation of the binary system of numbers, on which the computer is based, and a series of diagrams explaining the operations followed.

Then the group went to the laboratory and had an opportunity to see the million dollar machine in operation.

The group was under the leadership of Douglass L. Eaton, head of the mathematics department at the high school.

When it reaches operational status, the solid-fuel Douglas Skybolt can be launched from the "H" as far as 1,000 miles from multiple targets, making it unnecessary for the bomber to penetrate heavily defended hostile territory.

Skybolt is designed to follow a ballistic path to its target.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Mortimer Sanger and Miss Dorothy N. Ring.

Local Firm Plays Part In Missile

The intercontinental B-52H-Skybolt ballistic missile combination, which was unveiled to the public yesterday, was described by Air Force officials as representing the most flexible deterrent to aggression found in this country today.

The Flow Corporation, 85 Mystic st., Arlington, is a participant in the B-52H production program, as a supplier of components for the versatile bomber.

The new "H" version of the Stratofortress and its four hypersonic missiles is a significantly improved model in the B-52's long record of technological growth.

Its extended range will provide an increase well over that of the previous "G" model, which last month was flown more than 10,000 status miles by Strategic Air Command without refueling and landing with sufficient fuel for another 1,000 miles.

Deliveries of the eight-jet B-52H to SAC are scheduled to begin later this year. Present orders for the bomber will extend production to mid-1962.

When it reaches operational status, the solid-fuel Douglas Skybolt can be launched from the "H" as far as 1,000 miles from multiple targets, making it unnecessary for the bomber to penetrate heavily defended hostile territory.

Skybolt is designed to follow a ballistic path to its target.

THANKS FOR THE "BOOST" — Capt. Ed Butler (30) of Brockton appears to be giving Capt. Leo Scully of Arlington a boost by the belt as Leo gets his high lob away in Friday's game. The locals won, 64 to 45. The Lowdermen stand 2nd in the Suburban League.

PEE WEE HOCKEY

Maple Leafs 4, Bruins 3 — Fred Dolan and Ed Ronan, the classy forwards of the Leafs, teamed beautifully to edge the Bruins 4-3. The victory put the Leafs in first place. Dennis O'Sullivan was a menace to the Bruins with his great defensive play. He also blasted home a 25 footer.

Bob Webb kept the Bruins in contention with two goals and an assist. Mark Davison also netted one for the Bruins. Nobby Unger picked up an assist.

Maroons 2, Rockets 1 — Dave Gorecki, steady wing of the Maroons, led them to their second straight win with a fine tally late in the game.

Dan Granahan scored the first goal for the Maroons assisted by Dick Butler. Butler and Fred Holway earned assists on Gorecki's score.

Roger Kelley scored the lone Rocket tally on a smart pass from Peter Morse.

Canadiens 3, Black Hawks 0 — Johnny Deveau, the league's leading goal getter, banged home two more to lead the Canadiens to a 3-0 shutout over the Hawks. Ken Donovan started things rolling for the Canadiens with a 12 ft. blazer that caught the strings. Gordie Howell picked up an assist on Deveau's second goal.

Red Wings 2, Rangers 1 — The Wings hustled their way to their first victory by tipping the Rangers 2-1.

Little Bob Heaven put the Wings in the lead when he stole the puck at mid-ice and beat the Ranger net minder with an accurate shot from up close. Mark Murphy added an insurance tally assisted by Dave Portesi. Bob Preston got his first goal of the year late in the game.

HANDWRITING ON WALL — Cambridge Latin's goalie, John Ragazio, blocks puck off stick of Red and Gray's star, Shaun Quinlan, as the 3rd place Cantabs came from behind 3 times to beat the league-leading Burnsides, 3 to 2, for the 1st loss of the season. Thus, the pack is breathing down the necks of the local icemen. Further proof — in the 1st outing vs Latin the Red & Gray won in a romp, 6 to 1.
